Total Size is the total file size. Free Size is the free disk space. Packages: lists the total of open and locked files in each package. Connected to most of them is the FreeDiskSpace command, that lets you know which folders take up the most space on the hard drive. By running it, you are free to scan them (and even clean them) to free disk space. FolderSize is an extensive application that efficiently monitors and adjusts the permissions for each folder in the current computer, along with the size of each one. The tab is particularly useful for corporate environments to avoid troubles with unexpected file sizes. Cross Browser Connection: It's a dedicated interface that gives you the ability to minimize four important tabs that control your most visited web sites. It can be accessed by each and every browser, regardless of what part of the computer they are launched from. It combines all browser settings, such as Start Page, Address Bar, Speed Limits and more. All browser based settings are supported, and even includes Firefox, Chrome and Opera, among several others. As soon as you open it, the tab brings you back to the last web browser you were in. Email Automation: It's a comprehensive and intuitive utility that lets you work with POP3 and IMAP4 servers, through each and every email accounts you have. It lets you synchronize (“pull”) emails to your account, and also automatically fetching attachments from each email, to save you time in handling those. You can even use the application to go through the emails in your inbox, as it offers sorting, flagging and tagging features. FTP Configuration: It's a dedicated client that allows you to manage all the necessary FTP accounts on your computer. It gives you the possibility to start (“Browse Local Folders”), retrieve (“Download Files”), and retrieve (“View Files”) files to your computer. MDM Client: It's a powerful tool that lets you configure licensing for selected applications. With just a single click of a button, it lets you control and restrict users from running applications that they are not licensed for. It uses MDM (Mobile Device Management) technologies that let you create your own Operating System (Orange Pi OS) for mobile devices, or to configure mobile devices. Password Management: It's a tool that lets you create, protect and recover your passwords. Thanks to the built
