
Fifa 22 For PC (Final 2022)

The new forward pass technology features a new artificial intelligence, which is more intelligent and proactive in controlling the ball, and translates the motion of the player into action on the pitch. It will act as a third-party referee, using the data provided by the artificial intelligence to make decisions, influencing the opponent's defence. The artificial intelligence will also read the intended path of the pass, and will make its own decision about whether or not to make a challenge for the ball, even if the coach's intention is not always clear. Finally, the AI will also provide live feedback to the player, advising them on their movement. FIFA 22 introduces a completely new ball physics system: It now features new Layers of Motion Technology. Most balls feature four Layers of Motion, but balls with a traditional 12-layer construction are also available. Each layer of motion gives the ball a distinct feeling, from the Layer of Under Pressure to the Layer of Speed. The surface of the ball now features an additional Layer of Precision, which is used as a control layer in player shooting. This new Layer of Precision was tested with players and coaches from around the world during its development. Better passing Artificial intelligence quick passes. You need to do this as quickly as possible so that the defence can't quickly react and create their own pressure. Create your own pressure to win the ball back. FIFA 22 : Best pass Short pass to receive the ball in your feet. The ball then will fly forward as soon as the pass has been received. You have to be quick and smart to do this. FIFA 22 : In-play Refereeing Set the ball with a pass to the open player. The AI will then try to stop the opposing team and defend their goal from there. If you win, the AI will kick the ball out of the danger zone. You can also control the attacking team, setting them up with passes and tackling. You can then call for the offside
