-CHANGING: How to Become a Successful Writer You've been tutoring students for years. You've been awarded a check from a TV station to talk about education and the current trends in education. You've made thousands working with troubled students. You've had a successful career in education. And you have never written a word. After learning of this writer's lack of skills with words, he asked the blog writer to assist him in achieving competence in the matter of grammar and spelling. He was delighted to make this writer-to-writer connection. In no time at all, the writer had discovered the art of writing. He's now a published writer. That makes you wonder: What if I had paid to have a writing program? Where might that have led? Despite the success that can happen after a writing program, wouldn't it be better to set up your own program for free? Would that force you to become more creative? Would it allow you to become the success you're already? This program will show you how to: Achieve competence as a writer. Live life-changing ideas. And put your writing to work in a much wider field than one story could ever matter. The answer to all three of these questions is yes. Every person in the world has a story to tell. If all of them had the tools of communication to tell their story, the world would be able to live and grow in a more effective way than it has been for generations. It's time to start thinking about the idea of teaching. If you want to start teaching and want to do more than the one "pitch" to a school, earn more money writing, teach more students, and facilitate groups, the program is designed to do all of these things. But it's also designed to provoke some more creative thoughts about life and learning. Where Would I Be If I Had Paid to Write? What might you have accomplished if you had paid to write? This project will show you that: You can achieve results with your writing for much less money than you spend each year in other ways. Teaching can be more effective than you think. If you're not letting your students help run the class,
