Bryant, now 40, was expected to retire after the year, but he came to play in front of one of his favorite teams. Just moments before tipoff, Bryant told reporters that he still had "a long ways to go" when it came to playing. Still, he looked like the same player that won two NBA championships for the Lakers during their comeback from the depths of despair in the early 2000s. Los Angeles took an early 3-0 lead in the first quarter, but Boston answered with an 11-2 run to take a lead of their own. The Celtics took a 31-23 lead at halftime before the Lakers turned things around with a 9-2 burst in the third quarter, highlighted by a late-game pair of free throws by Bryant. "I thought it was a great game," Bryant told reporters, according to ESPN. "I felt like I just got a chance to play." The Lakers trailed 65-60 when Kobe Bryant hit a game-winning shot from the left wing, draining a dagger three-pointer after a failed fast-break layup attempt with 2.5 seconds left. "It's really difficult when you're down by 15 points," Bryant said. "You come down the stretch and don't have anything." Quantification of the ovum transfer process into the uterus of infertile ewes using magnetic resonance imaging. To quantify the number of ova transferred from superovulated follicles to the uteri of ovum donors following the administration of human chorionic gonadotropin (hCG). Five Rambouillet ewes in estrus underwent superovulation with standard treatments and then, with 250 microg of hCG, were evaluated by magnetic resonance imaging
